LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

David Allen leaves his collars, chains, chokers, bones, bisquits, and his papers to the AKC and his doggie deodorant to Donna Dunham for reasons that are none of anybody's business.

Debbi Bates leaves her title uncontested.

Nelson Burlingame leaves Shirley Denault a happier woman.

Dave Butler leaves Mr. Carlson's parking space empty.

Dinny Carroll leaves her collection of favorite recipes to Mrs. Boggs in hopes that the home economics department will make better use of them.

Karen Cavanaugh leaves her balloons to Sarah Jensen.

Nina Clough leaves a partially used tarrot deck to Mr. Daigle.

John Cook leaves his place on the heater in Rm. 9 to Randy Wilbur.

Pat Davis leaves her auto body only, to O'Malley's.

Robert Davis leaves his participation in class, eagerness to learn and friendly smile to Mark Pepler.

Robert Dean leaves hand in hand with Mike Piehl and David Zinkowsky.

Earl Demers leaves a copy of Drums Along The Mohawk, covered in leather with gold-leaf print to the Shepard Hill library.

Roger Demers leaves all that artistic ability to Andrea Arduini.

Chris Ewing leaves Ed, still loving him.

Sue Fanion leaves Steven Morse chained outside the girls' room.

Ann Gard leaves still watching for Miss Blake to appear in the girls' room by Rm. 16.

Debbie Grant leaves still complaining about the English dept., the science dept., the math dept. the social studies dept., the home-ec dept, the art dept., the business dept., the administration, gym class . . .

David Gouin leaves his bookkeeping practice set still uncompleted and Mrs. Kroll a nervous wreck.

John Gouin leaves to take up a career in running breakfasts in schools across the country with the assistance of Mrs. Boggs.

Billy Harrison leaves regretfully, wishing he could stay and further his math education.

Dee Hazzard leaves to write a book — an expose' of all the dirt at C.H.S. gained by her many years of office duty.

Kathy Hebert leaves her hidden collection of pornography to Randy Wilbur.

Jessie Henderson leaves never having been here enough for anyone to know the difference.

Chris Ide leaves her job as bell ringer at Notre Dame to Monica Burque.

Sam Ide leaves with his coke machine securely locked in the back of his car.

Susan Jeacopello leaves those midnite calls to male faculty members to those who can dial after they've had a few drinks.

Debra Kubesh leaves her hope chest to Karen Cook, not that SHE needs it.

Denise Labonte leaves with a scarlet A embroidered on her blouse thanks to Mr. Daigle.

Candy Lafleche leaves her cake baking service to Mr. Daigle, Mr. Carlson, and Mr. Taylor, tho' these 3 should be the least interested in using it.

Lee Longwell leaves her sexy stride to Mary Skowron.

Lawrence Malouin leaves his night shift job to any teacher who will believe him.

Linda Morang leaves a collection of unread books to the English and Social Studies Departments.

Diane Mongeon leaves her foul temper and her dirty mouth to Mark Darling.

Steven Morse leaves his ballet shoes to Peter Gustafson.

Mike Piehl leaves hand in hand with Robert Dean and David Zinkowsky.

Susan Roy leaves her headache and sick tummy to Mr. Berkowitz.

Nancy Reil leaves the pledge of allegiance uninterrupted by giggles.

Sharon Scott leaves with a full set of speech notes in her purse.

Debra Stake leaves her four year flirtation with the theater to Steve Ide.

Phillip Stevens leaves his family nickname to Debbie Mondor.

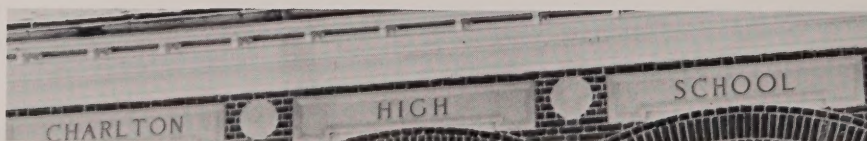

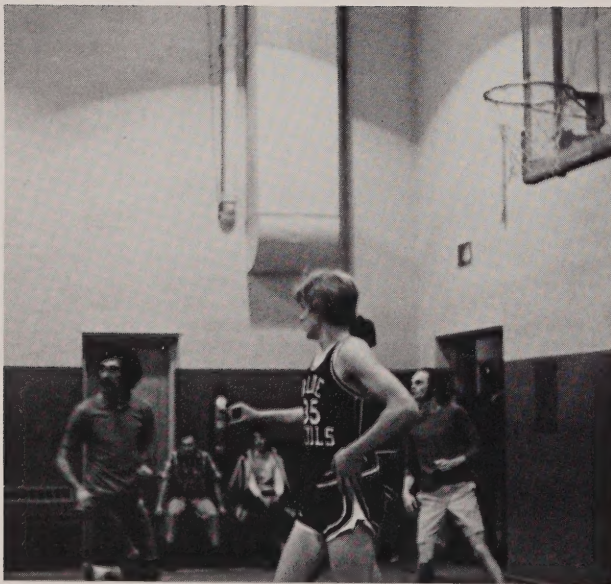

John Terrill leaves his filthy mouth to Bonnie Gionet.

Glenn Wilbur leaves the first 3 periods to anyone who has a Mickey Mouse alarm clock.

Phyllis Wilson leaves the forests of Charlton without any competition.

Lynn Wolfenden leaves in the trunk of Sam Ide's car, neatly packed next to the coke machine.

David Zinkowsky leaves hand in hand with Mike Piehl and Robert Dean.
